Toyota Recalls Certain Lexus LX Vehicles

March 24, 2026

PLANO, Texas (March 24, 2026) — Toyota is conducting a noncompliance safety recall involving certain model year 2022-2024 Lexus LX vehicles in North America. Approximately 15,300 vehicles are involved in the recall for the U.S.

The Occupant Classification System (OCS) in the front passenger seat in some of the involved vehicles may not operate as designed under certain circumstances. This can affect the deployment of the front passenger airbag system, resulting in a noncompliance with a federal safety standard and an increased risk of injury to an occupant in the front passenger seat in a crash.

All known owners of the subject vehicles will be notified to return their vehicles to a Lexus dealer. Dealers will inspect the relevant parts and, if necessary, replace the seat frame assembly with a new one, free of charge.

For all involved vehicles, Toyota will notify customers by late-May 2026.

Information about automotive recalls, including but not limited to the list of involved vehicles, is current as of today’s filing date and is subject to change thereafter. To see if your vehicle is involved in a safety recall visit Lexus.com/recall or nhtsa.gov/recalls and enter your Vehicle Identification Number (VIN) or license plate information.

For any additional questions, Lexus customer support is also available by calling the Lexus Guest Experience Center at 1.800.255.3987.