NEW YORK, September 5, 2017 – This month, in honor of National Child Passenger Safety Week (September 17-23, 2017), The Bump, the definitive voice for millennial parents, and Buckle Up for Life, the national car seat safety program from Cincinnati Children’s and Toyota, are teaming up to help keep the littlest passengers safe on the road. For each baby registry created on The Bump website or on its 5-star rated mobile app in September, Buckle Up for Life will provide a new car seat to a family in need as well as educate recipients on the correct way to install it.^[1]

“The Bump is excited to team up with Buckle Up for Life to reach families in need with free car seats,” said Julia Wang, Head of Digital Content, The Bump. “The Bump provides expert-driven advice to parents and also helps them find and register for the right car seat, so it was a no-brainer to team up with Buckle Up for Life to help our audience effectively pay it forward just by using our registry platform.”

“We’re teaming up with The Bump to provide car seats to families in need to help keep their littlest passengers safe. We also want to send a big thank you to all of the parents who are signing up for registries with The Bump and by doing so, helping other parents,” said Gloria Del Castillo, child passenger safety expert at Cincinnati Children’s and senior specialist for community engagement from Buckle Up for Life.

“We want to help make sure that all families have the resources and education they need to help keep their children safe on the road,” said Mike Goss, general manager, Toyota Social Innovation. “That’s why we are so proud to work with The Bump. Throughout this month, The Bump’s incredible community will be able to amplify their gift-giving and the impact of welcoming and protecting newborns.”

“Receiving my son’s car seat from Buckle Up for Life was the best thing ever,” said Nikki Jordan, a resident of Cincinnati who participated in the program. “Not only did they provide a new car seat for my child, but they made sure to educate us on car seat safety. Buckle Up for Life made sure that the car seat was properly installed and even showed myself and my husband how to properly install it. I can’t thank them enough!”

To help a family in need and provide them with a new car seat, parents can go to TheBump.com/registry to create a registry today. Learn more at this link.

Buckle Up for Life reaches families in powerful ways by partnering with local children’s hospitals and community organizations, such as churches and community centers. Buckle Up for Life’s website offers digital resources in English and Spanish, including tips and videos on car seat installation. The site is optimized for mobile, so users can access information on the go on smart phones or tablets. Buckle Up for Life has reached more than 65,000 people across the country with free car seats and education since its founding in 2004.

The Bump is the #1 baby registry destination in the U.S., hosting over 1 million registries every year. The Bump is the only brand to utilize its own single-list technology to aggregate and sync all of parents’ baby registries. This means that parents, and those who want to buy for parents, can look at all the products they’ve registered for from multiple retailers on one easy-to-use page. Additionally, The Bump’s product catalog highlights and reviews more than 10,000 of the best-selling baby products—including car seats—across 60 categories.
