

New Toyota Test Vehicle Paves the Way for Commercialization of Automated Highway Driving Technologies

October 06, 2015

Toyota City, Japan, Oct. 6, 2015 — Toyota has been testing a new automated driving test vehicle called Highway Teammate, with the aim of launching related products by around 2020. In addition to demonstrating the capabilities of next-generation safety technologies, the vehicle represents Toyota's view of the evolving driver-car relationship in the age of artificial intelligence.

For full details, go to: <http://newsroom.toyota.co.jp/en/detail/9753831/>