2021 Toyota RAV4

October 08, 2020

Very few vehicles have the capacity to be both a segment leader and a segment disruptor – but the fifth-generation Toyota RAV4 has managed to achieve just that. The latest RAV4 continues its bold leadership moves for 2021 by adding the XLE Premium model to the hybrid lineup at a starting MSRP of $32,500. Additionally,

| for the RAV4 TRD Off-Road, a new | TRD-stamped stainless ste | eel front skid plate has been a | dded for 2021. |
|----------------------------------|---------------------------|---------------------------------|----------------|
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |
|                                  |                           |                                 |                |