Manufacturing is arguably one of the most respected industries in society, and rightfully so. At Toyota, it's where the magic happens. It's the place where imaginations are met with tangible skills and physical power, bringing vehicles — that often start as sketches — to brilliant fruition.

With 10 manufacturing plants across the U.S., Toyota has a robust roster of employees who work diligently to bring customers quality products they can depend on: whether they're top-selling sedans that make running everyday errands easy or roomy trucks and SUVs that can haul people and cargo with ease. From body welding to the paint shop, manufacturing plants are truly what drives the company forward.

Here's a spotlight on some of the people behind the scenes whose skills are responsible for sparking innovation, one part at a time.
